

HOW TO LEAD VIRTUAL TEAMS?

The “How to Lead Virtual Teams” guide offers you an experience of practising sustainable leadership in virtual, multicultural, and multidisciplinary teams.

Today, almost every organisation operates in virtual and even more complex environments. The ERASMUS+ project “Sustainable Management: Tools for Tomorrow” (TOO4TO) has addressed this challenge and contributes to the goal of better and more sustainable virtual leadership. The project consortium has developed a virtual and interactive guide, “How to Lead Virtual Teams”. It is an open-access and multimodal guide that summarises and compiles the most recent studies and relevant materials related to team development and sustainable leadership. Throughout this guide, we have used the story of a virtual project team to illustrate several important examples of challenges and opportunities that real virtual team leaders and members face in their multicultural and multidisciplinary teamwork (e.g. psychological safety & trust, diversity in virtual teams).

Also, tips and concrete tools for facilitating and collaborating in virtual teams are offered. In addition, polls and assignments make this guide engaging and enhance your learning. This guide can be used by various businesses and projects collaborating virtually. Also, educational institutions can integrate this guide into their studies to support students’ collaboration online and strengthen their virtual teamwork skills.

Gdańsk University of Technology invites you and your colleagues to the How to Lead Virtual Teams Workshop on December 1. We will discuss the current state of virtual and hybrid teams and how your organisation can take advantage of the virtual guide and all the other results of the project.

The workshop is targeted to teachers/educators, managers and employees at international organisations. Participation in the workshop is free of charge but requires registration. Due to the limited capacity, this workshop is primarily targeted at those outside the Gdańsk University of Technology. The workshop will be held twice during the same day, at 08:30 and 15:30.

Register for either one of the workshops here (deadline: 28.11.2022)
